SB 384 Press Conference

Last Friday, Jessica Lall, President & CEO of CCA, Cedd Moses, CEO of 213 Hospitality, and Adele Yellin, Owner of Grand Central Market, joined Senator Wiener, Assemblymember Santiago and Assemblymember Dababneh at a press conference in support of SB 384. This bill will allow - but not require - local communities to extend alcohol hours in entertainment and hospitality venues past 2 a.m. It will help create jobs, increase local revenue and keep people downtown. The bill is pending in the Assembly Appropriations Committee, which is the last stop for the bill before being considered by the full Assembly. After the press conference, several CCA members met with Senator Wiener at Broadway Bar to discuss the bill and other issues facing the hospitality industry. ### Affordable Housing Linkage Fee

This week, CCA spoke at the City Council's Planning and Land Use Management Committee regarding the Affordable Housing Linkage Fee. We successfully advocated for coordination of the proposed fee with existing planning policies and to extend the phase-in schedule to support a predictable environment for investment. We are also working to make sure the fee is indexed appropriately and takes into account market conditions, good or bad. The item was held in committee for 30 days pending a revised ordinance from the City Attorney's office and several reports from City Planning.

USC Village

USC Village, which was designed by Harley Ellis Devereaux, opened last week. This $700 million, 1.2 million square-foot project features 120,000 square feet of retail space combined with multiple five-story residence halls. It is an all-inclusive living environment for more than 2,500 undergraduates, combining student housing with retail, dining, recreational and educational facilities. It will provide more than $40 million in community benefits, including up to $20 million for an affordable housing fund managed by the city.
